Community Garden Notes

The community garden occupies the east corner of Riverside Park.

Volunteer work sessions take place on the first Saturday of each month at 9:00 AM.

The garden uses rainwater collected in two 500-litre tanks.

The tool shed is locked with a combination that is shared with registered volunteers.

Planting and harvest

Tomatoes are planted after the last frost, usually in late April.

Basil is planted beside tomatoes because the two crops share similar sunlight needs.

The first summer harvest is divided equally among volunteers who attended that month.

Excess produce is donated to the Riverside food pantry on Wednesday afternoons.
